

Sisense Fusion®

The AI-driven analytics platform that infuses intelligence at the right place and the right time, every time.

Evolve your business by infusing intelligence everywhere

Go beyond standard business intelligence and infuse unique data experiences into workflows, processes, applications and your products to empower everyone to take data-driven action where they spend time.

Transform your business from the inside out

Optimize current processes and identify new revenue opportunities with one analytics platform that empowers everyone in your organization, regardless of skill level, to drive greater impact by making analytics a natural part of your processes. Extend this impact to your own customers with innovative analytics infused into your own products.

FUSION ANALYTICS:

FOR YOUR BUSINESS

Drive better decision-making throughout your business by infusing intelligence into business applications, workflows and processes, wherever your teams spend their time.

FUSION EMBED:

FOR YOUR CUSTOMERS

Differentiate your products, create new revenue streams and increase stickiness with embedded AI-powered analytics for your customers.

Data analytics is complex. Simplify it

Organizations have data everywhere that holds huge untapped potential but its complexity and variety used to be difficult to make sense of the data and make it actionable. Sisense dramatically simplifies analytics for complex data, so that everyone can get the best insights from every byte data to make game-changing decisions for your business and enhance your customer experience.

The data experience, your way

Build customized experiences, leveraging drag and drop to code-first tools, to create unique experiences that change the way everyone interacts with data. With fully customizable embedded analytics, you can infuse actionable intelligence wherever you need it — from internal applications to your own products.

Scale your analytics, for today and tomorrow.

Evolve the business with limitless cloud scale through deep partnerships with all cloud providers and other third-party tools, including AWS, Snowflake, Alation, Fivetran, Adobe, and more. Sisense lets organizations scale on demand with cloud, on-premises, and hybrid architecture. Plus, you can scale across all skill levels and use cases for an integrated analytics experience.

Connect data, everywhere.

Connect cloud, in-application, and on-premises data for an AI-led, 360-degree view regardless of size, location, or type.

Analyze data and augment analysis with advanced technology.

Analyze and explore with or without code, to uncover powerful insights. Augment every analysis with predictive analytics and machine-learning that automatically highlights and explains impacts in the data. Users can simply type a question in natural language to get forward-looking intelligence — no tech expertise required.

Fuse your business objectives and technical needs.

Fuse use cases, business objectives and technical requirements together to create a robust analytics foundation and strategy, built on deep partnerships with all cloud providers and other third-party tools. Keep your business secure with extensive end-to-end governance, multi-level security and performance monitoring.

Infuse intelligence everywhere.

Infuse intelligence to transform how people work and how customers interact with your products. Infuse embedded analytics into internal business applications that automate multiple steps down workflows for faster and better decision-making across the business. Sisense Fusion's highly extensible platform opens new value-creating opportunities by embedding fully customizable analytics into products to help you stand out in the market.

